Universal inputs

Asked on every initiative

1 · Identity

Name *

Prefills with the initiative name from the library

Product

Select a product (optional)…

2 · Shape

Each of these gates what renders below it.

Kind *

One-time
A single dated promo with an event.

Recurring
A schedule that spawns instances.

Third option label comes from the initiative — webinars show “Evergreen”, ads show “Ongoing”. Suppressed entirely when only one kind is allowed.

Timing HIDDEN WHEN ONGOING

Upcoming
Planned promo. Track to its target date.

Historical
Already ran. Capture the actual results.

What’s the ask?

Make an offer | Drive to calls | Collect leads | Speaker fee

Options vary by initiative. Collect leads is borrowed-audience only; speaker fee is stage initiatives only.

> Audience is not asked. Picker tier 1 filters the library and each record carries its own audience.

CATEGORY BLOCK RENDERS HERE

One of ten schemas, chosen by the initiative’s parent category, plus any type extras. See the other artboards.

4 · Dates

No single date field is universal — the block is. Only the activation date appears in all three cases.

Activation date

Exact date | Month only

mm / dd / yyyy

Optional. The precision toggle applies here as well as to the event date — an ongoing initiative has no event date to make fuzzy.

Event date NOT FOR ONGOING

mm / dd / yyyy

Cart opens OFFER PATH

mm / dd / yyyy

Cart closes OFFER PATH

mm / dd / yyyy

> Cart dates show on the offer path. The calls path asks when does this round of calls close?; the leads path asks for an optional expiry; an ongoing initiative asks for an end date defaulting to plan-year end.

New opt-in funnel?

Yes | No

New sales funnel?

Yes | No

> There is no I’m not going to market it — almost nobody who picks it means it. A partner webinar is still being marketed, just not by you, and that borrowed reach is what the projection should be built on. No promotion needed is the honest zero: renewals, rebills, referrals. Either funnel yes adds a week to the prep window. Ad budget lives here, not in Expenses, so one answer opens both fields.

WHY THE CART WINDOW MATTERS HERE

Revenue lands between cart open and cart close, not on the event date. Without the window, a webinar's whole revenue is attributed to the day it ran — off by days, and off by a whole period when the cart crosses a month boundary.

Kinds: one-time, recurring or evergreen — audience is baked into the initiative record, never asked here

Affiliate portal?

Who manages partners?

Affiliate manager

The Affiliate block, not the Partner block — many partners, no single host, so who's hosting? doesn't apply.

SAME CATEGORY, THREE DIFFERENT CART MECHANICS

Challenge — pitch day derives the cart open date
Internal Launch — a webinar date in the middle derives it
Affiliate Launch — the offer owner sets the dates; you enter them read-only

MOSTLY YOUR OWN AUDIENCE

Affiliate Launch is the one initiative that is both — you own the offer, you borrow their lists — so it appears on both picker branches and resolves to borrowed.

Everything here makes an offer → the Cart block always attaches

BOUGHT PLACEMENTS — PODCAST ADS, NEWSLETTER ADS

Who's placing this?

- You

Have you booked the placement?

- Booked
- Negotiating

These are placements bought from a person, not a self-serve platform — there's a host and a booking, so the Partner block applies.

PLATFORM IS AN INPUT, NOT AN ASSUMPTION

Meta, IG Reels, IG Feed, YouTube, Google and the rest perform differently enough that one blended figure describes none of them. The user picks the platforms and the plan keeps them apart.

STANDALONE VS SUPPORTING

Standalone — one initiative per platform, as listed above. Each is a campaign you manage and budget separately.

Supporting a bigger initiative — a webinar run on Meta traffic. Platform is captured in the universal Marketing section; budget per platform, projected registrations per source and CPA targets live in the Ticket Map module, not here.

Ads are the traffic layer — what happens to that traffic belongs to the initiative being advertised

Promote a larger initiative | Re-engage an existing list | Sell something | Offer a free gift

Do you have a list?

Yes | No

Roughly how big?

e.g. 12,000

How warm is it?

Active buyers | Engaged | Cold / lapsed

Results scale with list size and warmth. One without the other projects badly.

How many touches?

4 – 8 emails

e.g. 10 days

Broadcast or automation?

Broadcast | Automation

Automation schedules ahead; broadcast keeps flexibility if the copy or funnel changes mid-promo.

SMS ONLY — COMPLIANCE GATE

Do you have a texting service?

Has your list explicitly agreed to texts?

Yes | No

10DLC business number?

Yes | No | Don't know

Verified with the carriers?

Yes | No

Compliant with government standards?

Yes | Not sure

These are blocking, not informational. A2P verification takes real time and varies by state — Texas is the strictest. An SMS initiative dated before verification clears cannot run.

DIRECT MAIL ONLY

What are you sending?

Postcard | Letter | Package

Direct mail service?

Yes | No

Do you know which neighbourhoods or segments you're targeting?

Postcodes, past buyers, corporate contacts...

Cost per piece means this only works on tight, high-value segments.

BORROWED CAMPAIGNS ARE REAL HERE

A solo ad, a sponsored newsletter send or a partner's dedicated send is a borrowed-audience email campaign — booked with a named partner on a set date, so the Partner block applies.

Kinds: one-time or recurring — a campaign is a discrete send, not an always-on state

THE ONE PATH THAT HAS NO CART

Everything here is drive to calls. Revenue lands as calls get held and closed, which runs weeks past the activation date with no natural deadline.

When does this round of calls close?

mm / dd / yyyy

The one case where the close date can't be derived — it has to be entered.

WHERE DID THE CALLS COME FROM?

Booking rate, show rate and close rate all depend heavily on the funnel the calls came from. A call booked off a VSL behaves nothing like one booked off a live webinar.

VSL | Webinar | Evergreen promo | Email promo | Outbound | Referral

This is the only category where the source has to be asked outright — the projection has nothing usable behind it otherwise.

YOUR OWN AUDIENCE ONLY

This category never renders on the borrowed branch, so no Partner block attaches.

Kinds: one-time or ongoing — a standing booking flow runs continuously, not as countable instances

DOWN FROM ELEVEN TO FIVE

Podcast and YouTube guesting left for Other People's Stages — Virtual; your own podcast, channel and lives went to Your Own Event — Virtual. A show is an event you host, not a channel you publish to, and it asks completely different questions. What is left here is the always-on publishing layer: no dates, no cart, no booking.

MANY PARTNERS, NOT ONE HOST

Referrals and Affiliate Recruitment run with many partners at once, so who's hosting? and is it booked? don't apply. They take partner count, recruitment status and commission terms instead. Referral is borrowed only — there is no version where the audience is yours.

Referral → sale runs 35–60% — the highest-converting traffic source there is

SHARED CORE

Which of these do you already have?

Google Business Profile | Yelp | Directory listings | Public reviews | None of these

Roughly how many reviews now?

e.g. 24

At a location | We travel | Both

Changes what can be claimed and how the service area is set.

ALWAYS-ON, NOT A PROMOTION

All three are ongoing hygiene practices rather than promotions. No arc, no cart, no event — a review engine doesn't launch and close, it runs continuously alongside the business.

They fit as ongoing initiatives collecting leads, with an end date defaulting to plan-year end. Revenue attribution is the hard part: a review that converts someone three months later isn't traceable back to the review.

BUILT FOR A BUSINESS WITH A LOCATION

These serve a local service business rather than a stages-and-launches operator, and they work as a set — a profile with no reviews and inconsistent listings performs worse than any one of them suggests.

Kind: ongoing · Path: collect leads · No cart, no event date, lead-count goal
